

Tiger Terrific: LSU's Unforgettable 2003 Championship Season

Defense wins championships. Its a time-tested axiom of football at all levels, and it proved to be the truth once again in the 2004 Sugar Bowl as LSU won the BCS championship over No.1 ranked Oklahoma 21-14. The top scoring defense in the country not only put points on the board and sacked Oklahomas quarterback five times, but they held the top-scoring offense in the country in check. Oklahoma, which averaged 461.4 yards per game in its previous 13 games, would finish the Sugar Bowl with only 154 against the Tigers.
